2025 CRUISE CALENDAR

Where in the world should you go and when? Let us guide you, month by month, to the best destinations for different times of year and ensure sublime experiences on land and sea.

January

New year, new adventures. Look to the Caribbean. Clear of hurricanes, the sea is calm and warm, the sun hot yet not scorching, perfect for snorkelling off white-sand cays in Bequia and exploring mighty Mayan wonders such as Xunantunich. On South America's Pacific coast, it's hot, dry, and there's a summer buzz in ports such as Valparaíso in Chile, where the rainbow-bright old quarter was recently listed by UNESCO, while sea lions are breeding on Peru's Ballestas Islands. Alternatively, look east. Southeast Asia has good weather for everything from lazing on Ko Samui's palm-lined sands in Thailand to scootering through bustling Ho Chi Minh City in Vietnam. In the Indian Ocean, Sri Lanka is a 2025 hot ticket and the whale sharks have arrived in the Maldives' underwater utopia.

February

St. Valentine passion fills the air in the romantic sugar-sand isles of the Philippines, such as beautiful Boracay. Singapore is driest now, with plenty of nature to explore in one of the region's greenest cities. On the main Japanese islands, crisper weather and lower visitor numbers make it a pleasure to explore marvels such as 17th-century Kochi Castle and the dynamic capital, Tokyo. While in South Korea, it's brisk but dry in the bustling city of Busan – find out why this country has gained such popularity for its fashion, food, and culture. Over in South America, life's all about the beach at Balneário Camboriú and Rio de Janeiro is all about carnival at this time of year as it erupts in a frenzy of sequins and hip-shimmies.

India is ideal now: dry, hot, and fun-filled as Holi, festival of colours, love, and spring, explodes mid-month. July fizzes with energy across the Northern Hemisphere, palpably in Scandinavia and around the Baltic Sea, where days are long and temperatures high. In Sweden and Finland's capitals, Stockholm and Helsinki, the sun barely sets – a much-loved period called the "white nights" when people stay out late to embrace the near-endless sunshine. It's also a fine time to weave through the fairytale old towns in Tallinn and Riga and visit the bewitching forests of Estonia's Lahemaa National Park or Sigulda, "Latvian Switzerland". Copenhagen in Denmark offers acclaimed Nordic cuisine, in Oslo Norwegians are swimming in the fjords.
